SHEEPMEN CALL FOR LOAN MONEY

Banking Conditions Show Change With Passing of Taxpayers' Demands.

TRADE IS GENERALLY GOOD

All Lines Report a Seasonable Volume of Business in Holiday And Staple Lines.

A feature of the local banking situaon this week is the preparation of invation papers for the new Citis' State bank of Bingham with a ital stock of $20,000, and with Rodpey T. Badger cashler of the Utah Natonal bank of this city as president; rome Bourgard as vice president, and W. E. Bucholtz as cashier and loal manager. Bingham has grown to a point where prominent citizens there lieve a second bank would prove ofitable and convenient. The incorration papers will be filed some time coming week. The banks report the demand for money has kept up well, particularly from the sheepmen, while improved trade conditions among local merchants have proven of encouragement. Rates of in-are easier. The crops have been rest are easier. The crops have been gely moved, and tax monies are begin structured. The general financial sk-out is regarded as gratifying. ary Clews in his last circular letter says:

Labor is well employed, and there would be little reason for hesitancy were it not for the phenomenally nigh level of prices whether of merchandise or securities. Complaints of the high cost of living are universal. There is good reason for many of these complaints, but the fact is they are frequently being made the most of as an excuse for advances in wages. A far more potent element in the increased cost of living than is readily admitted is the extravagance which has become a national characteristic and weakness. This tendency towards extravagance is more evident even in the home than in business or in public affairs, and its effects in the long run cannot but be injurious. Many totally unnecessary amusements and luxuries are now indiged in which were never thought of leyears ago, and the result must be easily diminished national saving dulged in which were never thought of 10 years ago, and the result must be a greatly diminished national saving power, out of which should come our new supplies of capital. As to what will check this upward trend in values nebody can forecast. Production has not yet outrun consumption. Combinatory of the constant of the consumption of not yet outrun consultations of all kinds are restricting com-petition and putting up prices. Infla-tion and speculation are adding fuel to the fire, and at present there is nothing in sight to check the advance except exhaustion of the purchasing nower of the consumer. That, too, is not in the immediate future.

HARDWARE.

The hardware trade reports collecthe hardware trade reports collec-tions as steadily improving, which is regarded as a very hopeful sign. The demand continues for builders' hard-ware, as well as for metal goods, and all kinds of stoves and heaters. If seasonable winter weather keeps up, there is every indication of good, steady business. The demand for metal ware and sheet iron has been such that there is a scarcity in tinplate, and all kinds of roofing material, orers being several weeks behind in filling. In general, the trade is in a gratifying condition.

LUMBER.

The lumber trade reports conditions improved, in that the car shortage causing so much trouble in the past is greatly improved and delayed shipments from the northwest are begining to arrive. The same is true of the cement trade, which is included in lumber. Raw material is moving freely from the deposit to the mills and the mills are now working to their fall capacity. There has been no change during the week in fir or pine. The local yards continue to do a landoffice business in general building material, as construction keeps up is pace with favorable weather. However, the storms of winter appear to be at hand, if not commenced alread, which will cut off a great deal of out of door construction until settied weather returns in the spring. supply. Most of the goods for the holi-day trade have been shipped out by the jobbers, but there remains more or less jobbers, but there remains more or less to be done in the way of filling re-or-ders and special calls that will keep the trade busy until the middle of Decem-ber. There are calls at present for quilts, blankets, as well as the staple stocks moved at this time of the year, Jobbers report staple prints as a prob-lem, asking if the retail trade will mee lem, asking if the retail trade will meet the advances. Cotton fluctuations continue to unsettle the general market, though the movement to consumers is in fair volume. Jobbers report a light trade in gray goods, buyers holding back, but with stocks in good condition. Bleached cloths are fair, with not any new sales, but with prices at top figures. White goods are advancing slightly. There is not much activity in napped goods pending price adjustments. The kult goods trade is held back, with sellers unwilling to name prices on fall, 1910 lines. There are some concessions in silks, though are some concessions in siks, though there is no general unloading and west-ern buyers reported to have secured

RETAIL

The retail dry goods trade reports a The retail dry goods trade reports a very fair trade, especially in linens, noticeably of the table and fancy varieties. The silk trade is not in good shape, except as to Shantungs and rough effect goods. In the recent past, people have bought freely of satins and messalines, and the unsatisfactory results have been largely instrumental in giving the rest of the trade a set back. Some of the stores are advertising pre-Christmas special sales, thus in giving the rest of the trade a set back. Some of the stores are advertising pre-Christmas special sales, thus disposing of various lots of goods that it has been found advisable to get out of the way. The art departments of the big stores are doing especially well. and in all general seasonable lines there is reported a good, steady trade. In some lines business is better than ever before at this time. ments are doing well. The glove depart

BUSINESS NOTES

Transactions in the local stock list during the week were somewhat limited, the activity of brokers having been transferred to city improvement warrants, which have been largely dealt in at a discount averaging 10 per cent Some blocks of Utah-Idaho Sugar preferred also changed hands at the figure named below. The sugar factories al continue running at full blast, but will commence shutting down around Christmas time. Reports from the beet fields indicate that nearly the entire erop is out of the ground, but that hauling has been interfered with by the soft roads.

REAL ESTATE and BUILDING

The feature of the real estate market during the week was the invasion of the old "Walker Square" on Fourth South and Main streets, an historic ground which will give way to the march of business. Here the Walkers intend to erect large structures which will have up-to-date store rooms below and office buildings above. The improvement investment will be well over $100,000.

The United Cigar Stores company added to their leases of lest week and will have, in addition to the Godbe-Pitts and Kenyon hotel Main street corners, also that of the Clift hotel on Third South and Main. This property was secured on a ten year lease and, according to the men who have been engineering the tobacco people's campaign, terminates their operations in Sait Lake. They have now secured probably the three most valuable business corners in the city.

A notable event of the week was the announcement of the near building of a big apartment house on 'Capitol. hill by Mrs. Carrie Moore Gray. This is to be a $125,000 investment and will give an impetus to residence building in that part of the city. The foundation is to be put in during the winter and work on the building started as soon as the weather will permit in the spring. the spring.

Realty deals involving business property in Main and First South streets and also a site for flats on South Temple, all involving something like $100,000, were completed during the week. The Main street property is that occupied by the Vincent Shocompany, 14 by 135 feet. It was bought by C. C. Roberts for $42,000. Mr. Roberts sold the property at Broadway and First South to the Western Loan and Savings company for $43,000. This is on the east side of Broadway and includes one-half of the corner building and the ground. There was a transfer of a right of way through Broadway, sold to L. H. and J. A. Young of the Younf & Young company.

The activity in State street holdings, with Fourth South as a vortex, still continues. There are rumors of all sorts of deals and there is no question but that a number are nearing completion. Most of the purchasers are covering because of the desire to obtain neighboring property without being subjected to an inflation of values caused by the announcement of their buys. The activity in State street holdings.

Residence properties continue to be active, with investments breaking away from the south and southeast parts of the city, most of the deals during the week being in the north and northeast, on the bench lands. Buying has been very general in this line and the spring promises to see a great activity in the building of homes.
